PRESENTING THE BANNER. Col. Slack: A very pleasant duty has been assigned me by the ladies of Wabash county. They have procured this most beautiful banner and through our mutual friend, Mr T. B. Mc-

Carty, it has been safely transmitted to my care, and I am authorized by the patriotic donors to present it, through you, in their name, to the 17th regiment of Indiana volunteers. The county of Wabash has committed to your command three companies of her true hearted yearn ary, and as you have honored one out of their number with the position of color bearer of the regiment, the ladies of the county have sent these as the regimental colors to be borne by him in every storm of battle through which we may pass, till the war shall terminate.

The costliness of the banner is a compliment to yourself as the Colonel Commanding to the men they have sent into the field, and to your standard bearer - a three-fold compliment, which they feel assured will be appreciated by us ail, voted to the cause in which we are engaged and

They seem to have forgotten that it was the Union banner that Washington and his brave compatriots fought, and that England was against it; that Marion and Sumter were for it, and Tarlton and his infamous band against it; that Jackson at Tahladega, Emuctaw and New Orleans was filled with a holier patriotism and a firmer courage, as he looked upon its stars and stripes, and that they were waving over the National Capitol, when the Hero of the Hermitage wrote the Palmetto State those immortal words, "The

Tell them, as they gaze pon these regimental colors, to think of the wives, mothers, sisters, and loved ones, who are praying for them at home; and who, if they are brave, fearless and victorious in the conflict, will welcome, respect and honor them all the more when they return. COL. SEACR'S ACCEPTANCE. CHAPLAIN SAWYER: In behalf of the 47th regiment of Indiana Volunteers, I accept the beauti ful flag which you have presented from the generous and patriotic ladies of the county Wabash and through you to them do I, in the name of the regiment, extend the most heartfelt thanks and gratitude for this, their most welcome donation. It is the flag of Washington; the flag of Madison; the flag of Jackson; the flag of our country -our whole country; the flag under which deeds of daring valor have been enacted upon many a battle field, in establishing and sustaining American liberty and American Independence. Around it cluster so many fond and cherished recollections of the past; so many bright and sparkling hopes of the future, that I feel a confidence in saving there is not a soldier belonging to this regiment whose soul is inspired with any other feeling than that of patriotic love and veneration for this, the ensign of American hope and American nationality, and under it, in this contest, the murderous hand of treason shall be stayed, the assassin's

And when we reflect that it is not only the ensign of American liberty, but has been committed to our custody by the patriotic ladies of Wabash county, each and every one of whom has burning within her breast that fire of patriotic love and devotion inherited from a noble and gallant an cestry, which always characterized the matrons of our common country, I think I am safe in pledging to the fair donors, in behalf of the regiment that on every battle field, come success or defeat, come what will ,this flag shall be upheld and sustained, and around its standard will we rally in defence of the rights of loyal American citizens everywhere. For this object and none other have we left home, family, and near and cherished friends, and no act of dishonor or cowardice shall ever tarnish its soul-inspiring folds. All that I ask in making good these pledges is the co-operation and aid of each and every soldier of this regiment, and I know that they will be most heartily given.

Again, Chaplain, do I return, through you, to the ladies of Wabash county, in the name of the 47th regiment, the most profound and heartfelt graticude, for this generous bestowal.

Sergeant Lindsey, you have been selected as the principal color sergeant of the 47th regiment and you have been been appointed to that position because of your well known coolness, courage and discretion in every trying emergency While the post which has been assigned you as one of the most honorable character, yet it is one of danger and responsibility.

-Colonel William Resigned .- We regret to learn by a private letter received in this city, from the Adjutant of the 32d regiment, that Col. Willich has resigned. His friends here say that for some time he has been disgusted with the manner in which the war has been dragged along in Kentucky, and has resigned in consequence. The country will learn with regret that our cause has lost the services of one of the most efficient, talented and brave others in the Union Army -Evansville Journal.

-The Evansville Journal conceives that the ADDRESS OF REV. SAMUEL SAWYER, CHAPLAIN, IN "skies are not yet clear" and concludes an article under such a caption, as tollows: It is evident from all these facts that we have only one hope of safety. The rebel armies must be crushed, and that speedily, or the future alone can describe the fiery ordeal through which we will have to pass. The people may as well be ooking at the prospect with calmness and making up their minds accordingly. This Government must not be sacrificed through imbecility. Our immense resources are not to be forever squandered by folly and meapacity. No officer, civil or military should be required to perform impossibilities, but after all be has asked for has been freely and promptly given, and he has been granted ample time to arrange his plans, the people expect him to do something commensurate with the power placed in his hands. METROPOLITAN HALL .- Jeannie Deans. This drama, founded on Sir Walter Scott's novel of the Heart of Mid-Lothian, and dramatized by Dion Bourcicault, will be produced this evening at Metropolitan Hall. It had the unprecedented run of fourteen weeks at Laura Keene's Theater, New York, on its first production there, and the exclusive right to present it out of that city has been purchased by Miss Annette Ince, who will personate the heroine, and be aided by Miss Marion Macarthy as Effic Deans, Felix A. Vincent as the Laird of Dombeydykes, together with Messrs. Albaugh, Hamilton, Hight, White, Hill, &c., Madames Pope, Hill, Endress, &c., which insures a thorough interpretation of Sir Walter's beautiful work. We shall speak of it to-morrow after witnessing its performance.

SIGN OF THE BIG HOOP SKIRT .- The proprietors of this dry goods establishment, situated on West Washington street, just east of the Palmer House, are illustrating what energy, application to busi ness and good management can accomplish. Lynch & Keane commenced business but a short time ago in a contracted room and with a small stock. From this moderate beginning they have gradually enlarged, and we prophecy their establishment will keep on growing until it rivals the mammoth concerns of the city. The secret of their success is that 'Squire Lynch knows just what will suit the trade and where and how to purchase to the best advantage. And in addition to this all customers are treated with similar courtesy. With such advantages and such accomplished salesmen as Captain Moriarty, who almost anticipates just the wants of the purchaser, it is not a matter of surprise that this establishment is growing so rapidly in popular favor.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT -- We are pained to learn that Charles Hovey, a brother of Colonel Hovey of Mt. Vernon, was terribly mangled and seriously if not fatafly injured by the premature discharge of a cannon, on Wednesday last. A gun squad in Mt. Vernon was firing a salute in honor of the day-the 8th of January-and Mr. Hovey was engaged in ramming down the charge when the man who had his thumb on the vent at lowed the air to enter the piece. An explosion instantly took place, the rammer carrying away both of Hovey's arms below the elbow and other wise injuring him. When our informant left, preparations were being made to amoutate the stumps. The eyes of the unfortunate man were also injured and he will probably lose his sight. Evansville Journal.

From Kentucky.

CINCINNATI, January 11 .- The Cincinnati Garocate, now one of the editors of the Louisville Democrat, who arrived here from Sandy Valley graceful route.

On Monday last Col. Garfield's forces, including the 24th Ohio, 10th Kentucky and 1,800 cavalry, had proceeded up Big Sandy to Paintsville, within seven miles of the rebel camp when they were met by a flag of truce bearing a message from Humphrey Marshall asking if matters could not be arranged without a fight. Col. Garfield immediately replied he could of fer no arrangement except either to fight or sur-render unconditionally. Marshall then addressed his men informing them that they had no other alternative excepting to surrender or disband, and giving them the choice. They decided to Dressed disband, and immediately collected and set fire to all their wagons, tents, camp equipage, supplies, &c., then each man was permitted to take care of himself, and the whole force scattered in confusion. No attempt was made to save any thing excepting their cannon, which were hauled off. Col. Garneld dispatched his cavalry in pursuit; they expect to capture the guns and perhaps pick up many of the flying rebels. The rebels in Northeastern Ky., from the high estimate in which Humphrey Marshall's military ability was held, had strong hopes of success under his leadership A sufficient Federal force will be left in this region to secure its future peace and safety.

From Washington. WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 .- The skirmish of Capt Russell at Bath was a brilliant affair. He had been detailed from General Kelly's command with two regiments of infantry and two squadrons of cavalry and was stationed at Bath. On the approach of Gen. Jackson with 600 or 800 rebels his scouts gave him notice. He was six miles from the Potomac river. He took the infantry and went about two miles and posted them as skirmishers in a dense wood. The cavalry was left to engage the advance of An exchange of shots was the consequence of the enemy's advance under Turner Ashley, or guerilla notoriety, who came on and fell into the ambuscade. Capt. Russell lost seven horses, and kept eleven of the enemy's, and retired with his whole force across the Potomac, with a loss of only two men, who were drowned in crossing This is considered one of the most brilliant move ments of the war. Correction. NEW YOR, January 10 .- in the Port Royal news it should be that Gen. Stevens was in command of the expedition to the main land.
